As a recommendation, designed as suggestions to avoid cross contamination, that to ensure our Vegan Vanilla Ice Cream continues to be lactose free, caterers must take precautions when serving. As an example: using utensils dedicated for only serving vegan products, keeping utensils clean, locating the vegan tub to the far left or right of the cabinet, so no other ice cream flavours being scooped can fall in and keeping the lid on to minimise contamination. However, it is up to your food safety handling procedures to mitigate any cross contamination.

IMPORTANT: By law, the Caterer must know what allergens are contained within their dishes and be able to communicate this when serving. All allergens and ingredients are clearly labelled on the product packaging.
